A VERY CHEEKY THEFT.

Horse Stolen From Summer Street While the Owner Attended Church.

W. S. Archer of Blackinton hitched his horse in front of the Universalist church yesterday morning and went to attend the services. When the services were over his horse was gone. He reported the matter to the police, and Chief Fuller telephoned to Adams, Williamstown and Stamford, stating a horse had been stolen and giving a description of the animal. Officer Parrow went to Summer street to investigate and was informed a man went up to the horse, deliberately unhitched him and drove off. The horse was taken about 11.30 o'clock and about 7 o'clock last night A. J. Witherell reported to Captain Krum that he had seen a boy drive Mr. Archer's horse out from Witt street and turn southward. The captain said he would order a team and send Officer Hoxie after the boy. Mr. Witherell volunteered to drive Mr. Hoxie and they started. Down near Mr. Witherell's farm they overtook the boy who had then two companions. All were brought to the police station. The boy driving was Frank Supernant, about nine years' of age. He denied having taken the horse from Summer street. He said two other boys took it and gave him a ride to the Union where they left him and ordered him to take the horse back. He then, he said, started out for other companions.

A BOLD THEFT THIS MORNING.

A Man's Pants Containing Money and Keys Taken From his Bedroom.

The house of W. E. Bardwell, the South Church street milkman, was visited early this morning by a bold thief. The window of Mr. Bardwell's bedroom, on the ground floor, was up about six inches from the bottom and at about 3 o'clock Mr. Bardwell was aroused by a rustling sound at the window. He also caught a glimpse of a man's head which very suddenly disappeared. Mr. Bardwell arose at once and raised the window, but was unable to see anyone, the moon having gone down. Mr. Bardwell missed his pants and asked his wife if she had moved them from where they had been left last night. When told that she had not he concluded that they had been stolen, and such proved to be the case. Mr. Two feet of snow is reported operated in a very bold and quite novel manner. The thief had placed a box under the window and top of this he placed a common wooden pail. This made a platform high enough to bring him well up to the window. Then with a bean pole he reached in and fished out Mr. Bardwell's pants, which were hung about six feet from the window. In the pockets were Mr. Bardwell's keys and a pocketbook containing $10 or $15 in money. It is believed the theft was committed by some person familiar with the premises and knew just about where to find the boodle. The matter was reported to the

A Man Climbs a Tree to be Cool and Falls Down.

Ralph Lalla of Houghton street in an attempt to get away from the scorching earth Saturday evening climbed a tree in front of his home and sought a comfortable temperature in its branches. He was lulled to sleep by the soothing zephyrs of its grateful leaves and came to earth more quickly than he left it. Dr. Carr was called to repair the damage arising out of this unfortunate hunt for comfort and found a badly smashed nose and some slight cuts.

It was built about 1830 or 1831 by Captain Giles Tinker for Hart Ives, who occupied it but a few years. Some time in the forties Mrs. Ward bought it and her son, Edwin Ward, died there of small pox, but this was not the first case of the disease in town, as we had many visitations of the same before this one. The Chairman of the School Committee Makes Final Disposition of the Honors.

SPAULDING'S ERRORS THE CAUSE.

The Committee Accepted the Submitted Averages for the First and Second Years and Have Found They Were Not Correct.

O. A. Archer, chairman of the school committee went to the academy this morning and made a final disposition of the honors of the graduating class, giving W. J. McGurk, first place; Miss Esther I. Dean, second place, and Marcus Dean, third. The change at this time is not due to an error of the committee in their recent computation, it is explained, but arises from errors of Mr. Spaulding in the figuring of averages of the firstland second years when the numerical system of marking was in use. As the finding of the averages under this system was a simple mathematical problem the committee accepted the results without question and applied themselves to establishing a numerical value for the letter system of marking used in the third and last years. It appears that in the winter term of the first year Miss Dean was credited with an aterage of 96 when it should have been 95.5; that in the fall term of the second year she was given 97 instead of 96.75. In the winter term of the same year she was credited with 94 when she should only have had 92.5. This makes her average for the first year 93.5 instead of 93.6 and for the second year 94.18 instead of 94.8. Her total average for the four years is 94.88) instead of 95.6.

In regard to Mr. McGurk's marks, in the spring term of the first year he was credited with an average of 94 when he should have received 94.3. In the winter term of the second year he was given 90.7 instead of 91, and in the spring term he was given 95.5 instead of 95.45. His average for the first year is then 96.43 instead of 96.3, and for the second year 94.15 instead of 94. His average for the four years is 95.101 instead of 95.03. Mr. Mc-Gurk's advantage over Miss Dean is the difference between 95.10! and 94.88!.

The committee finds great pleasure in making the correction and are sorry they did not go over the entire marks in their first computation and not take anything for granted.

Monroe Temple.

Died, at his home on Grant street at an early hour this morning, Monroe Temple, in the cightieth year of his age.

Mr. Temple was born in Heath in the year 1815, and came with his parents to this neighborhood. Mr. Temple had resided in this town, Blackinton and Williamstown, and over all this section he was well known. He was a carpenter and builder by trade, and in full health and vigor was a very energetic man. He erected nearly all of the old covered bridges in this part of the country, few of which remain standing today. Six years ago Mr. Temple suffered a fall and his hip sustained an injury, the effects of which he never got over. His death was due to apoplexy Mr. Temple is survived by his wife and five children, Jackson L., Jonus, Elizabeth and Maria, all of this town, and Mabel of Providence, R. I.

The funeral will be held from the home Tnesdav afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Mr. Temple lived a long, industrious and honest life. When one his children brought to the TRANSCRIPT office some had found on the street, the late Judge Robinson remarked that it was a perfectly natural act for this particular youth because "he had an honest father." This testimony to character will be indorsed by all who knew Monroe Temple. He had his ups and downs of worldly advantages, planted his homestead trees only to hand them to others, and was tried by the reverses that so accompany this earthly life; but through good for-tune and ill he presented his composure of mind, his uprightness, his self respect and the confidence and esteem of those who knew him. PARENTS ENTERTAIN A MAN WHO ABUSES THEIR LITTLE DAUGHTER.

While They are Absent in Church He At tempts the Crime.

A revolting story of ingratitude and debasement came yesterday from Greylock. Mrs. Albert Bressette came to the police station and informed the officer that a man named John Sullivan attempted to criminally assault her eleven-years-old step-daughter. She said the man was well known to her husband and had come to the house that morning and asked to be given something to eat. His wish was granted on the score of friendship, and as he had been out all night, evidently after being drunk, he was given the privilege of lying down to rest. Their unfortunate guest being attended to Mr. and Mrs. Bressette went to church, leaving at home their little girl, a younger boy and a baby. When the father and mother were engaged in their devotion their guest by strategy induced the little boy to take the baby outside for its entertainment. Then he attempted the crime. The little girl heroically fought the man and he left the house. When Mr. and Mrs. Bressette returned to the house they found their little daughter weeping. The story was gotten from her with difficulty. The father immediately went out in search of the man and found him some distance away. He induced him by friendly words to return to the house. At sight of him the girl became very much frightened. The father allowed him to go, but the mother started for the police station. Officer Thrall, who knew Sullivan, was sent out after him. He searched carefully but could not find him. This morning about 2 o'clock he was found at his boarding house, the home of V. Sherman at the Five points. He was arrested by Officers Dineen, Hoxie and Thrall. Sullivan was in court this morning and was neld till tomorrow in $500-bonds.

Bad Freight Wreck.

RyE, N. Y., June 3.—There was a rear end collision between two freight trains on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad between this place and Harrison yesterday. Two train hands were slightly injufed. A hot journal and a broken coupling caused the first train to stop. The railroad authorities appear to place the blame on the signal men who permitted the second freight to enter the block before the first one cleared. Eighteen cars in all were wrecked, besides an engine and caboose,

ATTEMPTED CRIMINAL ASSAULT. UNION EVANGELICAL SERVICE HELD.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION TALK ABOUT THEIR WORK.

Mr. Dummer and Miss Vella were Instructive. Mr. Marston Sang Well.

A union service of the evangelical churches was held last night in the Baptist church for the purpose of hearing Miss Bertha F. Vella and Joseph N. Dunimer, secretaries of the Massachusetts Sunday school association, and H. S. Conant of Boston talk on Sunday school work and methods.

A good program of music had been ar ranged. The prelude was a selection by Belin rendered on the violin and flute by R. D. Canedy and W. H. Phillips. Th anthem, "Softly, Now the Light of Day" was sung, Miss Gertrude Heeney and Walter Cummings sustaining the solo parts. After a hymn and innovation Mrs. Curtis sang with flute obligate by Mr. Phillips. Rev. Dr. Brown led in the responsive scripture reading and offered praver.

Rev. F. D. Penney expressed his gladness at such a union meeting to give welcome to the workers present and believed all in attendance were in sympathy with their work. Mr. Dummer made an interesting address on the Sunday school. He reviewed its history from the first trace of it in the times of Abraham up to the time when Christ taught the fishermen on Galilee's shores, and continued to the days of Martin Luther and to the beginning of the present Sunday school epoch in England some years ago when the first school was established with three teachers, teaching for a shilling a Sunday. Now, he says. there is an army of teachers reaching into the millions. The hope of the country he said, was not in the public schools, great and good as they are, nor in our higher institutions of learning, but in the Sunday schools. He explained that in our democratic country the bible is not taught in our public schools and as it is the highest text book of morality it must be taught. In regard to the state association and the evangelical churches, he said, the aim is one, there is one common enemy, all study the same lesson, and why not then co-operate? The work of the association and its opportunities were at some length discussed by Mr. Dummer. He showed by statistics the large per cent of children not enrolled on the books of any Sunday school, and in the same manner he showed the results of the association's efforts.

When Mr. Dummer concluded F. Mortimer Marston sang a baritone solo, "Fear Not ye, O Israel," Buck. Mr. Marston has a good voice, finely cultivated and sang with power and sweetness. Miss Vella, whose work is in the primary departments, had her remarks suggested by some words about discourage ment she heard at one of the Sunday schools yesterday morning. She said it was the teacher's duty to teach; the result should be left to God. To prevent discouragement she advocated the culti vation of Christ's characteristics. She dwelt upon the observation of his spiritual type, his aim, his taking things to God in prayer. In illustration of the application of prayer she told of a beautiful custom some teachers had of praying for each pupil on his birthday and having him pray that day also. She wants attention paid to the fact that Jesus was a leader, not a commander, and that he had purpose. Teachers should have intellectual qualities and should use good judgment in looking out for the physical condition of their children. Among the practical characteristics she would cultivate are, love for work, teach as if it were your life's work, friendly sympathy. She spoke in regard to the wish many express that they could do as others do, and made clear that each has his own work, his own duties. She quoted some one who said, "the little duties are the golden pins that fasten the mantel of God's love about us," and she emphasized the consecration of our talents to God. It fell to Mr. Conant to make a plea for assistance for the association. His plea was short. He stated that the association had been supported so far by persons who is interested and has time to had faith in it and who believed the christian people would support it when christian people would support it when they came to realize its value. He response You are naturally inferred to printed matter in the pews which gave some explanation of the association and offered opportunity for pledges.

The offertory was "Our God is mighty to save." A hymn was sung and Rev. Dr. Brown pronounced the benedic-

A LECTURE ON ANTS.

Mrs, Sawyer Gives a Very Interesting Talk at Wilson Opera House Saturday. The lecture delivered at Wilson opera house Saturday afternoon by Mrs. N. C. Sawyer, of Brattleboro, Vt., was highly interesting and instructive. Her subject was "Ants," and the lecture was delivered under the auspices of the Monday club for the benefit of the public schools, in which the study of nature has been given considerable attention the past year. Mrs. Sawyer has a course of lectures which start with the beginning of life and lead along the line of development up to birds. The lecture delivered here was prepared especially for children, but was very interesting for older people as well. Mrs. Sawyer has studied her subject thoroughly and she gave the results of the latest scientific investigations of the ant tribe as well as her observations, which have been very extended and careful She also gave extracts from literature on the subject, some of it reaching back to a remote age, and related many interesting anecdotes. She had a number of watercolor paintings showing the different di-visions of the ant family and the different tages of ant life. A large number of school children were present and the Monday club was well represented, but there were not as many of the teachers present as had been hoped for. The lecture was much enjoyed by all in attendance and was heard with the closest at tention. It is possible the Monday club may arrange to have Mrs. Sawyer deliver her entire course here next fall if suffi cient interest in the subject is shown. A. B. Stackhouse of Warrensburg, N.

A TOWN'S GOOD NAME.

"Envy is the fume of little minds," says the wise old proverb, and "slander is the instrument of malice." It is the evil of slander that it injures even when it is not believed. Its poison blisters the skin though it may not destroy the flesh. A whispered junuendo, a deprecutory shrug or the shoulder, a discrediting inquiry, an implicating reference affect our judgment of persons we do not intimately know. We may struggle against the impression, and try to avoid the humiliation of being made the tools of mischief, but the taint of doubt remains to trouble us. Its harmful touch has wounded the bloom on the peach. And so the wisdom of life teaches t cavoid the company of the censorious.

And, if secret slander is poisonous to individuals, so also is open aspersion; and not alone to individuals but to communiresources of every community. Every as reing community. like Casar's wife should be above suspicion. In the growing competition of communities for advance-ment, their reputation is of foremost consequence. Where grave public abuses This is the highest civic virtue. It is a public duty, and, because a painful one, is all the more imperative.

But to point out abuses is one thing, and to invent them or to magnify them beyand the fact is quite another. To point them out with seriousness and candor is one thing; to make them the opportunity for violent and indiscriminating accusation is quite another thing. To magnify mole-hills into mountains, to make general and compromising charges without abundant and convincing proof, to incriminate all public officials as a body by a sweeping and unsupported aspersion is not a discharge of public duty, but the accomplishment of a more personal and less worthy end.

The evil of this thing is that all communities do not know ns as well as we know ourselves, so that the effect of such proceeding increases by distance. We know that these charges are incorrect and exaggerated. We know that the tone of our community life was never higher than now; that its morals, its administration of justice, its thrift and intelligence, its public spirit, the fidelity and wprightness of its officials, its high purpose and increasing ambition have grown with the other growth that has distinguished our later past, and were never greater than so fully know this, and their general consciousness that citizens do not want only discredit their own institutions gives unfortunate weight to a contumely that is essentially undescribed. To show how certain this effect must be, does any one suppose that, if the matter of the Normal school were now before the legislature, this town would have the ghost of chance of securing it? And yet, does any one believe that our school trouble as it actually was, before it was magnified by unwise clamor and unseemly heat, was of itself any obstacle to that preferment? It is as clear as anything can be that it was the exaggeration and not the actual feet of that situation that would have put us to public loss.

And by this one thing judge many. "It is a dirty bird that fouls its own nest," is the severe judgment of our sensible aneasters, and it is not a good service to the common interests of this town that injures its good name without compelling necessity. And, where this necessity does not exist, as we all know it does not adequately here, the disloyalty of such offending will come home to its authors, though the consequences of their imprudence-to give it no harsher namemust be borne by us all.

Englishmen may claim with patriotic pride that the Derby of 1895 had all the national characteristics, and the Ameer's national characteristics, and the Ameer's son, who gazed upon the scene almost with fear at its vastness and infinite variety, will have something to think of for the rest of his life. Most particularly must be have been impressed by the flavor of piety given to the whole mad scene by the manerous gosper booths, wherein tervid missionaries between races exhorted sinners to flee from the wrath to come. Truly the sinners predominated. Betting and all sorts of gambling went on untracked. Drink booths dispensed incessantly liquor which sent women as well as chacked. Drink booths dispensed incessantly liquor which sent women as well as can recting about the beautiful Downs rad dounk. Thieves worked merrily and profitably, and vice held open market; but tracts were distributed with lavish generosity, and at 1 o'clock prayer meetings were held all over the race course.

Dr. Philip S. Moxom is to remain in Springfield where he is paster of the South Congregational church. He was alled by the West Presbyterian church of New York, perhaps the richest in that Miller, and who were desirous of receivity, and was assured that he could prac-tically name his own salary. His continnance in Springfield is from this fact all the more creditable to him, and will inrease his already conspicuous influence and reputation.

Koehler Discharged.

The long continued case against Theodore Koehler for alleged selling liquors to minors was finally ended this morning in Koehler's discharge.

Sold Out His Business. George Shand has sold out his ice business to F. S. Todd. Mr. Shand has been here many years, conducting this business most of the time and it is probable he will start in something else. Mr. Shand is one of our selectmen and popular enough to succeed in anything he may undertake. Burst Blood Vessel.

Saturday evening Mrs. Annie, wife of Patrick McDonald, had a narrow escape from death, but through the timely assistance of competent physicians, she is now recovering rapidly. A blood vessel burst and Dr. Riley was called to stop the flow of blood. He sent for Dr. Holmes and together they soon placed her out of danger. This is the second accident of this kind which has befallen Mrs. McDonald.

"Captain Jack." On Friday evening, Moore's three-act drama, entitled "Captain Jack," will be presented at the opera house by North Adams talent, under the auspices of St. Charles parish. The drama is taken from Irish life during the rebellion of '98. It is said to contain none of the worn-out incidents which almost every Irish drama contains, but to be an exact reproduction of Irish life at that time. The best talent has been selected and the play will surely

To Erect a Monument.

The people of Notre Dame parish are to instead of paying attention to the orders erect in the near future a monument to of their chief attempted to give orders the memory of Father Charbonneau, their thomselves. This was noticed when the GAYLORD'S, 3 Martin Block. pastor, who died two years ago. A de-chief gave the order to shut off the water sign submitted by D. J. Crowley of North while changing the hose from the Smith Adams, meets with popular favor and will barn to the White barn in order to put in P. A. were two large scalp wounds on the rear right side of the head and a fracture of the skull. Dr. Riley was called and made him as easy as possible. A. H. Simmons' wagon was sent for and the injured man was taken to the North Adams hospital.

The man is in a dangerous condition and it is not probable that he will recover. He has a wife but no children.

The eaves of the Park street hose house hang over the land of Messrs. Daniels and Legate, where the new armory is being built. Either the building will have to be moved a short distance, or, as is strongly recommended, another story built and an inclined roof surmount it all. As the armory is going up with great speed, some action must be taken soon.

KILLIAMSTOKY.

Most of the people of this town were of the opinion that it was plenty hot enough Saturday without starting up the fire. But notwithstanding all this, the fire bells had to be brought into play again at about 9.30 o'clock when it was discovered that the large hen coop just back of the barn on the Mrs. Joseph White place was on fire. A large crowd gathered in a very few min utes and soon the fire company had the water playing. There were only two hy drants anywhere around and these were between 200 and 400 feet away so that a great amount of the pressure was lost. It was only a few minutes before the large barn caught and then the sparks flew in all directions. Both pleces of hose were then brought around in front of the barn to prevent the house from catching. At this point of the fire, which was about 10.15 o'clock, the wind changed and drove the sparks in the direction of Dawyar Clarence M. Smith's house. The fire was then held in check by attaching some new hose, which was waiting for carts to come and was then to be distributed between the up street station and the depot, to the hydrant in front of W. D. Crosier's meat market. After this had been extinguished and the buildings well watered more hose was attached and it was extended to the original fire which was soon under control. All the live stock was saved except about twenty pigeons and a few rabbits. How the fire started is a question, as no one goes to the building after 6.30 or 7 o'clock and the fact that it started in the hen coop makes it look extremely bad. The firemen descrive great praise for the short time it took to get the hose on and the way in which they worked and handled the fire after hose was on. The only fault to be

Williamstown 31, Adams 10. The Adams high school was badly beaten by the high school team Saturday afternoon. The game belonged to Williamstown from the start, nevertheless they worked hard and all brought up their batting averages. Exford pitched a beautiful game and was well supported. There seems to be no doubt as to who shall have the penuant. The score by innings and summary was as follows:

STRUCK FROM BEHIND.

Body of Patrick Gallagher of Providence Found In the Woods

Had Quarreled With Wife a Few Hours Previous.

Three Young Men on Their Way Home Stumbled Over the Corpse.

PROVIDENCE, June 3. - Early Sunday norning three young men who were on their way home through a path that runs from Admiral street through the Corliss woods found the body of a man, who had evidently been struck down by a blow from behind. The body was three hours after identified as that of Patrick Galla-gher of this city, a melter at the Franklin iron foundry.

The men who made the discovery were Robert Spencer, Michael Delahanty and John McCarthy. It was about 13:20 a.m. when they stumbled over the body. At first they thought it was a drunken man, and were about to shake him when they observed blood on the ground under his head. Then they hastened for a doctor. The police were notified, and the body was removed to Tanner's undertaking rooms.

The body was not identified until about 4 o'clock, when Mrs. Patrick Gallagher reported to the police of station 2 that her hu-band was missing. Mrs. Gallagher stated that her husband went to call on a sick friend Saturday afternoon and came home about 9 o'clock. He was angry bestarted off again. Mrs. Gallagher was taken to the undertaking rooms and identified the body as that of her husband.

Ample Evidence of Murder, Medical Examiner Palmer held a post mortem examination yesterday and found a round bruise over the right eyebrow and another one under the eye. There was a round bruise over the right eyebrow and another one under the eye. There was also a hig lump back of the right ear, which had been caused by a blow. Dr. Palmer said death was due to violence. A blow had caused the rupture of a blood vessel and a clot at the base of the brain.

The police are looking for several well-known characters from the North End who attended a picnic near where the body was found. On Thursday the Foresters was found. On Thursday the Foresters held a pienic there, and their tents and fixtures were used Saturday by the Bachelors' club. Gallagher attended the pienic Thursday and got into a row with several North End men. The latter also attended Saturday's picuic, but all who attended Saturday did not see Gallagher there on that day. It was learned by the police that there was a light in one tent as late as 12 o'clock Saturday night, about 20 minutes before the body of Gallagher was found.

The last time Gallagher was seen alive by his friends was abut 9:39 o'clock Saturday evening, at the corner of Polk street. He had two glasses of beer no few minutes before, but all his friends state that he was not a heavy drinker. He had his pipe in his mouth at the time, and it was found broken about 10 feet away from where the body was found,

He leaves a widow, and a daughter, not yet 2 years old. He was 35 years of age, and had been married three years.
